HOSPITAL CLOSING

that a priority listing be established for every hospital area within the state and this is done completely independently of whether the citizens within the hospital area favor a hospital, are opposed to a hospital, or have even given any consideration to a hospital.

Now, with regard to the deficiencies of the King's Daughters and Sons Hospital, Bay St. Louis, I feel certain that your board is aware of most of these deficiencies and that you, more than anybody else, would desire to remedy these deficiencies if within your power and means to do so. Accordingly, I shall not attempt to go into great detail but will list only the more obvious and more pressing ones, some of which could be corrected if funds for that purpose were available, but some of which can never be corrected so long as you remain in the present building which is clearly inadequate and unsuited for modern hospital operation.

First and foremost, the building does not comply with established codes whether fire, electrical, plumbing, exits codes and others, looking toward safe and efficient hospital operation. The interior walls and ceilings are of wood or a very inflammable cellulose fiber material which violates the requirement that walls and ceilings shall be of a material with a fire resistance rating of one hour, and further violate the requirement that they should be constructed of materials that are easily washable and cleanable.

The fire extinguishers kept in the building had not been recharged for approximately one year at the time of our last inspection.

Exit doors from the building do not swing in the direction of travel nor are they sufficiently wide to permit the removal of helpless patients on their beds.

The principal corridor in the hospital is narrow with several doors swinging into the corridor, all of which would obstruct exit of patients and personnel from the building in case of emergency.

One of the more hazardous conditions found in the hospital is the use of unvented gas space heaters for general heating which presents not only the hazard from fire but from asphyxiation. Further, the regulations require that combustible floors under such heaters shall be protected by asbestos covered with metal or similar protection, and that they shall be located not less than 18 inches from combustible walls, both of which provisions are freely violated by the space heaters in your institution.

One of the more pressing hazards in any hospital is from fire occurring in cluttered or obstructed storage areas. Since storage areas in your institution are completely inadequate, materials and equipment are tucked back in spaces that are not frequently observed and therefore present more than the normal hazard from fire.

Anesthetizing locations in the hospital do not comply either with the electrical requirements, the conductive floor requirements, or heating requirements of NFPA Bulletin 56.

Sterilizing facilities are not adequate to the needs of the institution, the principal deficiencies being in suitable cleanup and work areas and proper storage for sterilized materials.

Handwashing facilities for personnel working in the hospital are insufficient in number and in location.

Facilities are not provided in the hospital for adequate labora-

Sellier-Alleman Wedding June 22

Claiming widespread attention on the Gulf Coast and in St. Charles Parish, La., was the wedding of Miss Myrtle, Alleman, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Percy J. Alleman of Norco, La., to Lionel Sellier, son of Mrs. Elder Sellier of Bay St. Louis and the late Mr. Sellier.

The ceremony took place Saturday, June 22 in St. Charles Barre Church, Destrehan with Reverend J. Strassel, officiating at the double ring service.

The church was handsomely adorned with profusions of white flowers banked with palms and greenery. White gladioli in golden vases were placed on the altar.

The bride who was given in marriage by her father was radiant lovely as she entered the church in an original gown of white satin intricately designed with insets of Herbol rose point lace reembroidered in seed pearls. The fitted bodice of the gown flowed in a full skirt with emphasis on the back and the skirt floated into a cathedral train with the lace insets and pearl encrusting carried out the length of the sweep. A short veil of pure silk imported illusion was held to the head by a tiara of minute pearls intricately fashioned into a charming design of lilies of the valley. Her cascade bouquet was a shower of valley lilies.

Attendants to the bride were her sister Miss Joan Alleman maid of honor, Miss Joan O'Brien, Miss Barbara Trepagnier and Miss Claire Jeanfreau all of Norco. The little flower girl was Deborah Alleman, a niece of the bride. They wore identical gowns of white silk organza over pale Nile green silk taffeta underdress. Tucked bodices slanted in slenderizing lines from bateau neckline, and the full skirts were waltz length. Their headresses were fashioned of tiny pale green veiling attached to floral wreaths.

Cunning little Alvah Rühr, nephew of the bridegroom was ring bearer. An innovation in carrying note, a walking cane, bound in white satin ribbons with the rings attached to satin ribbons was carried by the small lad. Groomsmen included Grannison and Kent Sellier, brothers of the bridegroom, Bay St. Louis. John Davidson, Vicksburg, Donald Landers, New Orleans and ushers were Norvin Roos, Bryan Zeran.

There are numerous deficiencies in the keeping of medical records, all of which can and should be corrected.

These are but a few of the outstanding deficiencies of your hospital. As I indicated earlier, some may be readily corrected; others can be corrected only by construction of a building more nearly suited to the use as a hospital.

We will be glad to offer you such assistance as might be needed in making any of the corrections which your board shall decide to do.

Yours very truly,
FOSTER L. FOWLER,
Executive Director.

The fine spirit that has been shown by the good people of Hancock County, has been and is deeply appreciated by all of the board members and this fine spirit and co-operation is the one thing that has kept the hospital open up to this time.

We assure, all interested, that if a way can be found between now and the 15th of July to remedy the inadequacies set forth in this letter that we will most assuredly keep and maintain the hospital as a going concern as long as possible.

After having received the heretofore mentioned letter, we sought legal counsel and were advised of the serious liability on the board members. Further thought was given to this letter and the board realized the extreme danger to the patients and ourselves that since the board without funds to remedy the conditions mentioned in this letter and the only course left open to them was to close the hospital rather than take a chance with the lives of its patients and to also escape personal liability.

Sincerely,
CLAUDIA CARRERE
President of Local King's Daughters and Sons.

"Between Heaven and Hell" To Be at Star Theatre, 16-17

It sometimes takes the realities of war to snap a person out of a world he has created for himself. Just this type of a case now is dramatically presented on the screen of the Star Theatre were Twentieth Century-Fox's Cinemascope, De Luxe color production "Between Heaven and Hell" opens Tuesday and Wednesday, July 16 - 17.

As a Southern landowner who has no use for his sharecroppers nor any people below him in class, Robert Wagner gives perhaps the most sensitive and powerful performance of his career. Much of the intriguing and highly interesting story is seen through his eyes. When he is called to active service at the outbreak of World War II his wife, Jenny, played with charm and conviction by lovely Terry Moore, fears that an otherwise idyllic relationship is on the verge of breaking up due to his feudal attitude toward other people.

Because he strikes an officer under combat circumstances, Wagner is sentenced to an outfit in the Army has written off as a deserter of "Rebels". Here he is going to change his ways. One of the driving forces behind this change, although he himself is not aware of it, is the cowardly Army Captain, expertly portrayed by Broderick Crawford. The heavy actor has one of those steady roles which his talents seem to offer to command.

"Johnny Tremain"
Next Attraction At Legion Theatre

Walt Disney, who believes nothing can match history's calendar of men and events as a source for fascinating entertainment, vividly captures the adventure and excitement of the turbulent 1770's with the release of "Johnny Tremain," a live-action feature based on the dramatic incidents and personalities responsible for the War of Independence.

"Johnny Tremain" is Disney's most exciting effort to date in a growing volume of live-action features. The famous Esther Forbes book of the same name first interested Disney in making this picture, and provided the principle story background.

Next attraction at the Legion Theatre, Gulfport

Since the days of his youth, however, when he listened avidly to stories of his pioneering forebears, Walt Disney has had an intense interest in American history. At first he dabbled in it with shorts like "Ben and Me," a humorous account of Benjamin Franklin and a wise little mouse. But when he expanded into television and live-action motion picture production, the way was clear for serious devotion to his favorite field. After he started off by rocking the nation with his Davy Crockett stories, he soon discovered his main problem was selectivity.

"We found ourselves facing an embarrassment of riches," Disney says. "Every page of research revealed fascinating material fairly shouting for picturization. If all the world is a stage, then all history is a great story storehouse and casting dept. rolled into one. It's the story that counts. The time is incidental."

A picture on the War of Independence was an inevitability.

Thus, in "Johnny Tremain," such epic events as the Boston Tea Party and the battles of Lexington and Concord, are re-told authentically and dramatically. Johnny Tremain is a youthful witness to our nation's most significant days; a fictional character surrounded by men whose names are bywords today—Paul Revere, Sam Adams, James Otis, Dr. Joseph Warren, and Josiah Quincy.

Gex-Luce Wedding Saturday

A beautiful wedding of mid-summer took place Saturday afternoon at three o'clock at St. Paul's Catholic Church, at Pass Christian, when Miss Jacqueline Katherine Luce, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Luce, Henderson Point, became the bride of Mr. Hartwell E. Gex, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gex, Bay St. Louis.

The church was handsomely adorned with myriad white flowers banked by graceful palms.

The lovely brunette bride entered on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage. She wore an original bridal gown fashioned of pure silk imported chiffon, inset with Rose Point lace encrusted with pearls and iridescent sequins. The neckline was in sweetheart design and tiny cap sleeves finished the fitted bodice. A full flowing skirt swept into a cathedral train. Insets of lace were used in exquisite designs in the skirt. A tiara of lace and sequins held an imported silk illusion short veil to her head and she carried a cascade bouquet formed of pure white orchid from which sprays of lilies of the valley fell in graceful arrangement.

Attendants to the bride included her sister Mrs. Milton Bienvenue as Matron of Honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Carol Mossy, Miss Peggy Reid, Miss Geri Martin, Miss Marie Mallini.

They wore stunning summer frocks of cerulean blue imported silk chiffon made with floating waltz length skirts, and fitted bodices. Tiaras similar in design to that worn by the bride, to which were attached imported meline forming a veil effect of blue matching their gowns. Their bouquets were sprays of White Majestic California Daisies.

The bridegroom selected his brother Walter Gex III, as his best man and groomsmen included John Weston, Lt. Commander Richard Thames, William Kenney, Gerald Gex, a cousin, and Ben Hille, Jr. Ushers were another cousin M. A. Phillips, Jr., Larry Reid, Sylvester Pagano, an uncle of the bride, and Milton Bienvenue, brother-in-law of the bride.

Immediately following the church service a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents in Henderson Point.

Receiving with the bridal party was the mother of the bridegroom Mrs. Walter Gex, Jr., and Mrs. Thomas Luce, mother of the bride.

Both were stunningly gowned, with Mrs. Luce wearing an original of mauve rose imported lace with matching accessories, complemented with an orchid corsage, and Mrs. Gex attractive in a French Blue lace creation worn with a tiny hat in matching color and matching colored accessories. She also wore an orchid corsage.

Flowers, palms and greenery adorned the reception rooms, and the bride's table was beautifully appointed with an imported Brussels lace cloth covering the table, white tapers in silver branched candelabra flanking the large and beautiful wedding cake which was square in form, four tiered and topped with clusters of wedding bells and sprays of fresh lilies of the valley.

The young couple are traveling through Florida by motor on a wedding trip and on their return will occupy their new home on Sobral Avenue, Waveland.

For traveling the bride chose a frock of beige colored imported linen fashioned on Empire lines with a contrasting yoke bodice of figured linen in darker tones and a matching bolero. Hat and accessories toned to the colors of the dress. She wore an orchid corsage pinned at her shoulder.

United States Senator John Stennis, commenting on forestry appropriations approved by the Senate and House, said he is especially pleased with the increase of $60,000 for the Southern Institute of Genetics at Gulfport.

Senator Stennis, a member of the Senate Appropriations Committee, has stressed need for strengthening forestry research.

"In the three years that this genetics center has been in operation, remarkable results have been achieved in developing a spruce tree which grows twice as fast, is disease resistant, and produces more wood." Senator Stennis pointed out that increased funds made available for the Gulfport Genetics Research Center will conduct more intensified studies on Southern pine and Southern hardwood.

Senator Stennis said that further development of our forest resources presents our greatest long-range potential of increasing and stabilizing farm income.

"During the past 10 or 15 years more and more of our small timber owners have become increasingly aware of the many opportunities offered by the long-range investment program in forests."

"Through increased funds for research, it has been possible for these small growers to obtain the necessary information about sound and practical management practices. In addition, many of our farmers and others in our rural areas find employment in growing, harvesting and transporting our forestry products. More than one-third of our people are employed fulltime by the forestry industries, and many more supplement income through parttime work."

Senator Stennis said that he is confident the increased funds provided for our forestry research will strengthen our present program and will be more helpful in making way for a forestry program which will have lasting benefits to the entire Mississippi economy.

STICKING TO PLANE FACTS

Superior airplane is stronger, lighter when they're glued together. Rivets, bolts, and spot welds have given way to fabric glue. On plane, for example, is entirely glued together by glue, except for the windshield, landing gear, and the steel parts that resist with the heat of the engine. Fuel can be carried inside the wings without separate fuel tanks, because the adhesive seals the wing surfaces against fuel leaks. Oil-based glues, credited with some of the most spectacular developments in aircraft design and performance, typify the strong bond that exists between the aircraft and petroleum industries.

WORKING TOGETHER

Learning to work together is a lesson taught all schoolboys, but one we often find must be relearned in the complex tasks of adult experience, like industry. Getting in Mississippi we are learning from the hard knocks of past experience how better to work together so that potential industry is helped rather than harmed, or hampered, in its quest for a new site. Working together can often make the difference in landing a plant, and certainly is a fine atmosphere for a new company.

Miss. Southern College

Profiting From Book Project Inaugurated

Hattiesburg, Miss., June 27—The Mississippi Southern College Library is profiting greatly from a book project inaugurated by the Washington, D. C. chapter of the Alumni Association.

Powell G. Ogletree, Alumni secretary and Miss Anna M. Roberts, librarian, announced today that purchase of a number of needed books has been made possible by the Washington chapter.

"The idea conceived by Dr. John F. Allums (class of '35) of having graduates or former students of Southern donate books or funds for books in memory of or in honor of faculty members, has 'caught fire' and the library is benefitting greatly from the plan," Ogletree said.

Dr. Allums, outgoing president and vice-president elect of the Washington chapter, is chairman of the project committee which also includes Mrs. Enez Darby Egan ('33) and Mrs. Lucile Young Auzier ('51).

In a letter to Ogletree, Dr. Allums wrote "Our ultimate goal is to secure at least one book from each living graduate; and we believe that our plan will appeal to other Alumni groups and will not only secure contributions to the library but also stimulate interest in the Alumni Association."

Each book donated is being inscribed with the name of the graduate making the donation and the name of the faculty member in whose honor the book is given.

"We feel that this will appeal to graduates and also help to create the fine tradition of keeping alive the memory of faculty members who have given their devoted service to the college," Dr. Allums wrote.

The Washington chapter contacted Miss Roberts for a list of books that the library needs. Dr. Allums stressed the importance of this plan to other chapters that might adopt the project. "By checking with Miss Roberts we can acquire the books that are most needed and also avoid duplications," he said.

The first list of donors announced includes Dr. Allums, Mrs. Prunyn and Mrs. Austin and Mrs. Coy Hines Stennis, (wife of Senator John Stennis), who attended Southern in the summers of 1918, 1920 and '21; W. O. Dillard, Class of '33; Boyce Hathorn, Class of '51 Miss Mary Elizabeth Peet, Class of '22; Congressman Arthur Winstead, Class of '31; and Mrs. Winstead, Class of '31.

Faculty members honored thus far are two former presidents, Mr. Claude Bennett and Dr. R. C. Cook; Prof. O. V. Austin, Miss Alma Hickman, Dr. J. Fred Walker, Prof. and Mrs. John M. Frazier, Mrs. Ida Mae Pieratt Gilmore, Miss Nora Stevens, Dr. Bertha Fritzsche and the late Prof. S. C. Hall.

BOY CHOSEN TO ATTEND WEEK OF FORESTRY ASSN.

Morton May 5—The state's pulp and paper industry has invited 90 high school youths in Mississippi to attend a week of forestry training near here July 15-19 at Roosevelt State Park.

The annual forestry camp is sponsored by the Southern Pulpwood Conservation Association in cooperation with the Mississippi Forestry Association and the Division of Vocational Education.

The boys are chosen to attend the camp by their high school vocational agricultural teachers and the pulp and paper mills. Some of the boys are future farmers of America or 4-H Club members, have proven their forestry interest by their school projects. In many cases, vocational teachers attend the camp to assist in supervising the campers. Forestry instructors are furnished by the state and the pulp and paper mills.

Financing the camp are The International Paper Company, Natco, and Moss Point, a member of the Association; Flintkote Company, Meridian; Masonite Corporation, Laurel, and Johns-Manville Corporation, Natchez.

While at the camp, the boys will attend classes in forest fire control and suppression, tree planting, identification and other forestry courses.

Various types of camp recreation programs will be scheduled by Ben Davis of the Mississippi Forestry Association.

H. J. Malsberger, forester and general manager of the Southern Pulpwood Conservation Association, on remarking about the purpose of the camp said, "The youths who attend this and eight other similar camps sponsored by the Association in the South are the landowners of tomorrow. We hope to stimulate their forestry interest and show them methods of improving their own forests for the future."

John Adams And The Spirit of Independence

Small John F. Kennedy
Author of PROFILES OF COURAGE

HISTORIANS have always thought it appropriate that John Adams, the patriot president, should have died on the 4th of July 131 years ago today. For he is closely associated in our minds with all the events that led to that first Independence Day—including all the history-making events which took place in and around Boston such as the Boston Massacre.

Actually John Adams was not one of the patriot leaders inciting the anti-British passions inflamed by the Boston Massacre—on the contrary, in the trial that followed he was counsel for the defense!

JOHN ADAMS, Kennedy

on that night of March 23, 1770, when an abusive and disorderly mob on State Street in Boston was fired upon by British soldiers, was already a leader in the protests against British indifference to colonist grievances.

Nevertheless, when asked to serve as counsel for the accused soldiers, he did not hesitate to accept; and he acquitted his clients of the murder charge on the grounds that there was no evidence to show that the firing was malicious and without provocation.

For as he told the jury: "Whatever be our wishes, our inclinations, or the dictates of our passion, they cannot alter the state of facts and evidence. The law will not bend to the uncertain wishes, imaginations and wanton tempers of men."

In this stand of John Adams, so unpopular among the colonists at the time, one who should forget about the past and celebrate their struggle on this 4th of July? On the contrary, it demonstrates the kind of courage and conscience that has made this country great. For the lasting success and growth of a democracy require more than automatically following the "consent of the governed"—so ringingly declared on July 4, 1776.

THEY REQUIRE also that we have leaders willing to put the right, as their God-given conscience gives them to see the right, ahead of "popular suspicions" and the "dictates of our passions."

John Adams in 1770 set a high example of political courage for all to follow—and on this 182nd Independence Day, we Americans may be grateful that he did.

† Quoted from "Profiles of Courage," by John F. Kennedy, Washington, D. C.

will begin at 8 a. m. Monday, July 8. All inquiries should be sent to Joseph Huck, Box 138, Mississippi Southern College, Hattiesburg, Miss.

REPORT FROM COUNTY FORESTER, MARION PARKER

An interesting report comes from Area Forester Marion Parker giving the number of fires, their origin, and damage to a number of acres in Hancock County during the last fiscal year ending June 30, 1957.

These figures are impressive by virtue of their great reduction over the preceding year when a great number of fires destroyed and damaged large tracts of forest land in this county.

Of a total of 110 fires during the fiscal year in the county, the report shows 1446 acres burned with a estimated loss of $5,766.

Of the 110 fires 10 were attributed to careless smokers, 4 from burning debris and 96 attributed to incendiary action.

Traveling back in the report Parker shows the fiscal year 1955-56—168 fires with 13,408 acres damaged and destroyed; 1954-55 year, 213 fires, 3,574 acres damaged and destroyed; 1953-54, 309 fires with 9,683 acres damaged and destroyed. Parker also reported during the month of June 1957 not one fire was reported and no losses from fire.

Although the report shows 1953-54 and 1954-55 years a greater number of fires originated than in the 1955-56 year, the greatest damage occurred during the

1. People are realizing the importance of forestry.

2. More people are working in some type of forestry field.

3. Timber and its by-products are more valuable bringing better incomes for growers.

4. More cautious measures are taken by more people in handling matches, cigarettes and burning trash than in previous years.

5. Fires are reported to proper authorities more rapidly by persons spotting them.

6. More adequate fire fighting equipment.

7. Better communication systems (two way radio and telephone).

8. Increased number of planters of pine seedlings.

9. Personal contact and patrolling of "Hot Areas" by Fire Crews.

10. Fines levied on individuals who set fires and allow them to damage other persons property.

11. Cooperation of the general public in gaining information and coordinating with the commission on preventing and fighting fires.

Parker closed his interesting report with thanks to the people of the county for the splendid work which they are doing in their efforts to promote better forestry in Hancock County.
